The 4th Sunday of Easter is known as “Good Shepherd Sunday” since each year we have the opportunity to hear a passage from John’s gospel where Jesus identifies Himself as the Good Shepherd. Today we read from the 10th chapter of John’s gospel: “Jesus said: ‘I am the good shepherd. A good shepherd lays down his life for the sheep’” (Jn. 10:11). Good Shepherd Sunday is also an opportunity to pray for vocations to the priesthood. We pray in a special way for Callistus Ibeh and Juan Herrera as they prepare for diaconate ordination in just a few months. We pray for Fr. Bethge, the diocesan Vocation Director, as well as Fr. Michael Bruno, who works with seminarians as a professor and formation advisor. As far as I know, the last vocations to the priesthood from St. Luke Parish are Bishop Kevin Sweeney and Fr. Kevin Creagh, CM. Let us pray that the Good Shepherd might speak to the hearts of our young people and invite them to serve the Church as priests, deacons, and in the consecrated life.

Last weekend we had some work done on the trees on our property. Two trees needed to come down, and others needed trimming. As you know, parish children regularly use the great lawn, and so we need to make sure that it is a safe place for them to gather and play. The cost for the work was over $4,000.

I think it is important to speak about the Sacrament of the Anointing of the Sick from time to time. When many of us learned about the sacraments, we were taught about Extreme Unction, which was described as a sacrament that should be received only in danger of death. Especially since the Second Vatican Council, the Church’s understanding of the sacrament has evolved, and it is certainly not only a sacrament to be received as we are nearing death. The Anointing of the Sick can be celebrated in preparation for surgery, at the onset of a serious illness, and even simply as we grow older. In our area, virtually every hospital has a Catholic chaplain on duty, and so Catholics can ask the hospital staff to arrange for a patient to be anointed, to go to confession, and to receive the Eucharist. Most nursing homes have a local Catholic parish assigned to minister to patients, and so you can request that a nursing home patient be visited by a Catholic priest and the staff will arrange for a visit as soon as possible. I would suggest that when a Catholic enters hospice care, a priest should be contacted to visit the patient whether the hospice is in a healthcare facility or at the person’s place of residence. Homebound Catholics should request a priest to come for Confession and Anointing of the Sick at least once a year, but certainly if the patient’s health begins to decline. It is very difficult to assure that a priest will be available at a moment’s notice, so it is best to arrange for a pastoral visit while the person is conscious and able to benefit from the Sacrament of Penance, the Apostolic Pardon, and Viaticum. As a priest, it is heartbreaking to be called in emergency and find that the person is unconscious and not aware of what is going on, but was alert and aware only a couple of weeks earlier. I encourage families to not let your own fears to prevent you from contacting a priest to minister to an elderly or seriously ill family member. The sacraments are wonderful opportunities to remind us of the healing and consoling love of God, especially when we are most vulnerable.

With love and prayers,
Fr. John Costello
